“ Dear Dawn and Family,

We know there can be no real consolation on the sad loss of your dear son Junior. He was so bright and charming and we'll never forget how helpful he was to Gunter. We always said he was the nicest, kindest young man and how proud that must have made you feel. If there is anything we can do please don't hesitate to call dear friend. To you and your family, Gunter and I send our love and deepest sympathy. Affectionately, Bonni & Gunter##imported-begin##Bonni and Gunter Reichl##imported-end##

“ Jr. My darling, after our last conversation, who knew it was going to be our last. My world will never be the same. We shared so much over your 26 years, our trips, our chats, and our love for one another. My heart aches, it is hard to believe that you will never again be there for my visits to Connecticut. Words can not express how your death has impacted my life. There will be no more phone calls, texts, or our planned trips. Why did this happen to you? Why did God have to call you home so soon? My life is filled with more questions than answers. I love you and I will never forget you. Love aunty Heather.##imported-begin##Heather Arthur ##imported-end##

“ My sympathy goes out to the family during these difficult times. May the love from fellow family and friends provide you comfort. In addition, may the God of Comfort help you through these trying times (2 Corinthians 1:3). It is sad occasions like this that makes us look forward to the time when death and tears will be no more and our loved ones who have fallen asleep in death can be brought back to life(Isaiah 25:8; Acts 24:15).##imported-begin##James##imported-end##
